

Play "Poop the Coop"

The Society has a new 50/50 fundraiser game called "Poop the Coop." Society board member, Dawn Ellison, constructed a small chicken coop with numbered squares on the floor. The coop was ready for the Huntley Fall Fest along with Dawn's daughter Katy's chickens. Despite the terrible weather and early closing of Fall Fest weekend, squares were sold for a couple rounds of Poop the Coop, and the chickens performed well. The winner of a round won half the pot. The Society will have the coop at other events, so watch for our future outdoor events and come have some fun! Take a chance! Buy a square or two and support Huntley history.

The Huntley Historical Society Updates Logo

The Society updated its milk can logo. The milk can still serves as the perfect symbol of Huntley's historical roots. The production of milk framed our early economic growth, built the future and put Huntley on the map. In the early days, everything in Huntley was the result of dairy farming – creameries, stores, banks, churches, farm supplies, schools, doctors, and other services of all types. Prior to 1851, Thomas Stillwell Huntley knew that the railroad was coming through this area and capitalized on it. Could he have known that milk production would reach the heights that it did? From the 1860's to the 1930's, Huntley was the largest fresh milk shipping point in the Midwest. Add to that the amount of milk locally processed by condensed milk factories and cheese factories. In 1894, the Weltzien and Cornell cheese factory alone received ten tons of milk per day!

Our updated milk can design is everywhere, thanks to Huntley resident, Dena Napoli of CDM Promotions, Gilberts, IL. You'll easily spot the Society by the logo on stationery, shirts, banners and in the media.
